

Sampling from surrogate

- To represent the posterior distribution we require a set of samples drawn from it
- ABC methods produce an approximate sample from the posterior
- Surrogate methods provide an approximate posterior curve
- We use MCMC methods to draw a posterior sample

After inference